THE Editor's Corner

Death, as it must to all, came to Mrs. Ellen (Fuggie) Playford, the mother of this writer, early Saturday morning, May 28th. Funeral services were conducted in Toronto, with committal in the cemetery in Welland, eighty miles away, where she was buried beside the body of her husband who had preceded her in death. The trip to the cemetery was made through southern Ontario countryside made doubly beautiful by the sweet breath of spring. Mother loved the beauties of Nature.

Born in the County of Kent, England, which has been described as the "Garden of England" she came to Canada with her husband many years ago and their seven children, two boys and five girls were raised in Canada. She was a good wife and a wonderful mother. In the early days on the farm in Manitoba without all the modern conveniences that we think of today she raised her children, and to her credit it may be said that all have turned out quite well, even though this writer, perhaps, has not fulfilled all her hopes and expectations. Her husband, a widower, some years older than she, had six young children when she married him. These all have said that their own natural mother could have treated them no better than did their second mother. A wonderful testimony. A gardener born, she could coax gardens to bear, even in the driest of years. An animal lover, the farm animals would follow her all over the place. She had deep religious beliefs and principles, an inheritance from godly ancestors. An article in a Kentish paper following the death of her father a number of years ago told of his regular attendance at church and Sunday School, where he was Sunday School superintendent for many years. He had attended the same church for over seventy years, walking both ways to two services each Sunday and never missed a Sunday in his church. The editor of the paper had computed the distance he had walked to church in that time. We have forgotten the exact figure right now. It might not have been once around the world, but it was a figure just about as impressive and startling.

Nothing could have been more comforting to us youngsters than to have Mother come in, after we were in bed, tuck us in, give us a kiss and say, "God bless you." We felt that surely nothing could warm us after that. When those sudden Manitoba thunderstorms came up it was comforting to wake up, and to be aware, drowsily, that Mother was closing all the windows. She closed the windows of the house, after that, during our young childhood on many of those things that would come up to disturb our childish peace. To hurry into the house after school, to show "MOTHER" and to hear her answering hail is rich heritage for any child; it was ours. To come over the hill after a hard day of threshing at the neighbors and to know that supper would be warm and waiting is a pleasant memory of our youth. What we might say here is perhaps not too different than sons and daughters, now grown to adult estate, all over the land, might also say.

Perhaps there is not too much we can now say to express that which is in our hearts, except this: Mother, you have gone; you have earned your rest. Rest in peace, until the great Resurrection Morn.

effect that the should learn to appreciate the educational facilities offered to her by the province of Alberta.

Richard Schipper thought he might like the sound of apples smashing against the blackboards. He tried it and the result was a splattered blackboard. Thereupon the teacher presented him with a brush and pail and politely informed him that apples were to be used as food and not to be used as ammunition.

Ronald Schmilt certainly thought it was a big job to see his friend's books go up in flames while burning magnesium ribbon in a chemistry class.

Mr. Maddock, Chairman of Stony Plain School Division Board, presenting Mr. McManus with the Encyclopaedia at the graduation banquet, Friday, May 27th.

He laughed out of the other side his mouth when he discovered his friend was using his book. In Grade six Clarence Elliot found that big dinosaurs were hindrance to his school studies. Especially one day when he bicycled and the teacher asked him to leave the class for disturbing the peace. (To be continued next week)

I.D. ADVISORY COMMISSION LUNCHEON

Approximately 40 persons were served luncheon by the Canoeing service on Thursday, June 3, in the Community Hall, following the regular monthly meeting of the Planning Advisory Commission for I.D.'s 77, 78 and 89. The noon meal was provided through the courtesy of the Department of Municipal Affairs and may become an annual affair.

The Planning Advisory Commission was set up two or three years ago to deal with development matters within the areas contained in the designated improvement districts 77 and 78, and when the dam was started on the Brazeau River last summer, that area within I.D. 89 was placed under the direct supervision of the Planning Advisory Commission also.

Representatives were appointed from a number of governmental departments and companies operating in the Pembina field, as well as the Edmonton Health Unit, the Stony Plain School Division and the Towns of Lodgepole and Drayton Valley. Government departments that are represented on the Commission, which meets in the Pembina field, usually in Drayton Valley, once a month are, the Department of Health, the Department of Lands and Forests, the Department of Education, the Oil and Gas Conservation Board.

Representatives have been chosen from Pan American Petroleum Corporation, Mobil Oil of Canada, Texaco Exploration Company, Calgary Power Company Ltd., Pembina Pipe Line Company Ltd., the Edmonton Health Unit, the Stony Plain School Division, the Town of Drayton Valley and the Town of Lodgepole.

The Planning Commission deals with many phases of the present and future development of this area, embracing thousands of acres, including all the Pembina field west of the Saskatchewan and down to the Brazeau River. Development inside the Town of Drayton Valley is handled by the town itself through its Council. Lodgepole, still operating under the New Town Act, is administered by the Department of Municipal Affairs, with a member Board of Administrators, with a member from the Department of Health, a member from Town Planning, a member from the Department of Education and a member of Municipal Affairs.

District Personalities

Mr. Conrad D. Fuhr.

A native Albertan, Conrad D. "Red" Fuhr, was born in Spruce Grove on a farm. At the turn of the century his grandfather and his father had come to the Stony Plain area from Austria, and had fled on horseback. Both had owned all the land on which Stony Plain is now situated. In the early days C.D.'s father had been an immigration officer translator and interpreter for the C.P.R. He spoke seven languages.

When he reached school age Red started to a country school south of Spruce Grove where his father had bought a farm. In 1914 he moved to Edmonton and attended public school. From 1921 to 1924 he attended Concordia College where he studied for the Lutheran ministry. During the next three years he attended Victoria Composite High School and in 1928 he took a business course at Alberta College. After graduation he opened the post-office in Spruce Grove and kept books for a mercantile company there. In 1931 he worked for Canadian Utilities and Peace River Land Company in Vegreville and in 1932 he was a Department of Highways foreman and later superintendent of a gravel pit in Wetaskiwin district. He rode out the Depression until 1938 when he bought a farm south of Stony Plain and took his young bride there. At about the same time he entered into municipal and provincial politics where his organizing and speaking abilities soon won him a place of prominence. In 1938 he became chairman of the local school board, a position which he held for 15 years until he came to Drayton Valley.

In 1942 he organized farmers into the Farmers Organization and in 1946 became a director on the Farmers Union Provincial Board, a position which he held for six years. In 1948 he was appointed a member of a delegation which met with a Federal Cabinet committee in Ottawa; this delegation represented both Alberta and Saskatchewan farmers.

During the year 1948 Mr. Fuhr organized the Credit Union in Stony Plain, which is still in operation. Two years later he became the founder and first president of the Stony Plain Lecher Plant. In 1940 he helped organize the Edmonton District Livestock Association, of which he was named a director until he came to Drayton Valley in 1954.

On numerous occasions Mr. Fuhr was appointed to delegations to meet with the Alberta Provincial Council (cont. page 11, col. 1)

WHAT DO YOU SEE?

By Rev. Albion B. Wright of the Drayton Valley United Church.

I never cease to be impressed by the fact that those people who appear to have the least to be thankful for are those who are truly most thankful for what they have. I was reading this afternoon of a minister who called on a lady who had suffered from a disease that had caused her body to become deformed. She had to spend her time inside propped up in bed with pillows, and unable even to feed herself. I would like to record for your part of the conversation that took place between the minister and this lady who's name was Mrs. Chalmers. The minister speaks first.

"Is it hard to be confined here in this room?" I questioned.

"Confined?" she seized up on the word instantly. Why I have never been confined. I have read about confinement for prisoners, for the mentally ill, but I have never been a criminal or a psychopathic case." She laughed gaily and tossed her head, aureoled by a bright ribbon on which lent her iron gray hair a certain girlish charm.

"The Italians have a favorite proverb: When God shuts a door he always opens a window. Look out my window!" she challenged enthusiastically. "Why, all of my world is out there today, as every day. Do you not see the rambling rose vine, cascading all over the little green trellis? Look at those two giant clematis standing like soldiers before Buckingham Palace! The orioles and bluejays fill their branches with trumps! The sunbeams fling them the proper British colors. And look at the emerald green lawn on which the soldiers stand! A fit carpet for Princess Elizabeth as she moves forward to the bride! arid!"

"There! Look!" She spoke caressingly. "A little Jack rabbit has slipped across the lawn from my raspberry patch to the lilacs. He saunters every day. Yes, and we have a chipmunk too."

This spring the whippoorwill provided us with free concerts. The bird choir provides many other dawn.

"All day long the good people drive along the road in their 'brouettes'—the weak, the lame, the rich, the poor. I catch sight of so many little toes as they go riding by, the darlings! I bless them as they pass. In a small way, Pastor, you might say that I resemble the good Lord."

"Yes Ann? and how is that?" "One time I read something like this about the Master. He who could have no children of his own made every child his. Wasn't that beautiful?" "The word was poignantly self before she spoke again."

"I guess these things have begun to hold all the darling! I would have wanted. Only my heart has been able to hold them, all."

As I read the account this minister gave of his visit with Mrs. Chalmers I was reminded of a thought that was expressed last winter in an address given by Miss Mabel Simpson who recently retired as Dean of Women at the University of Alberta. Miss Simpson is reported to have said that "Heaven is in the eye of the beholder."

It seems to me that this is a truth of which few of us are aware. There is in all situations and circumstances of life something to be thankful for, something beautiful to be seen, something precious to be cherished if we will but allow ourselves to be sensitive to such stimulation.

We would pray the man or woman who would travel to Niagara and back without taking time to look at the falls. Let us not become objects of pity because of our blindness toward these things that surround us in our daily lives providing us ample reason for continual thanksgiving.

CWL Meeting

The C.W.L. meeting was held on May 30 with 17 members, one guest, and Father Scriven their director present.

Mrs. J. Shanley gave the treasurer's report. Twenty dollars will be donated to the library fund. Mrs. G. Wheeler was the delegate sent to the annual convention which was held at Red Deer, Mrs. Whelan gave a report on the convention which was enjoyed by all.

The annual C.W.L. communion breakfast will be held in the Scout Hall on June 19. The members of the Holy Name Society will serve at the communion breakfast. All ladies of the parish are invited and those wishing to attend are requested to call Mrs. J. Shanley at 359 a week in advance so that preparations may be made.

Father Scriven thanked the four teachers who taught catechism and also gave an interesting talk on benediction.

The hostesses for the evening were Mrs. O. Trudell, Mrs. R. Clermont and Mrs. W. Edgar.

CHURCH OF GOD NEWS

If you have missed these we would welcome you to attend when the tentative plans are for him to again speak in the evenings of June 25, 30, 31, 10.

This Sunday evening June 12, the tentative plans are that Rev. Oliver Smith, Son of Mr. and Mrs. J.A. Smith will be speaking. Rev. Smith has pastored in Swift Current, Saskatchewan and plans to attend the Western Pacific College of Portland, Oregon for this fall term.

In the past week a farewell get together was held for the Varn Bradford Family and for Mr. L. Ewert. These good folk have been an integral part of the church work in Drayton Valley during their stay and we are confident as they go to their new cities that they will continue in this important part of life.

Our Board of Christian Education have set the date for the Vacation Bible School, for our church to be July 25-August 6. We extend a welcome to all children between the ages of 4-12. We are expecting to have 100 to 150 in school this year. If you want to be sure you are in this exciting experience for this summer be sure you register now by calling the pastor's study 117 and leave your name and post office box number.

The Whitehead Beach Bible Camp will start on July 10, 1960. Rev. Wilfred Dickson the director of this interdenominational camp requests that if any one wishes to go to contact him, or leave your name with Pastor Wulff in Drayton Valley. You may contact Rev. Dickson at Stony Plain, Alberta.

THE BIG DECISION

I have, just a few short months ago, completed a new home in Kitchener. The workmanship was superior to anything I have seen before, and I do have some experience along the house-building line, having just completed one at Akron, Ohio, when I was told that I was coming to Canada.

My wife is rather selective about what goes into her house. In fact, I really should say that it was she who built the house. I just paid for it!

Anyway, when she went to a decorator to select wallpaper, she was told not to look at Canadian-made papers for just nobody buys anything but imported papers for a house such as hers. She DID buy Canadian papers for the simple reason that they were very attractive. I think she has excellent taste and apparently often do also for she has had many compliments on her whole decorating scheme, including particular comment on the wall-paper.

When I visited the Maritimes I found that Maritimers complain rather bitterly that the least frequent visitors to their outstanding natural beauty spots are people from Ontario. And many people whom I know in Ontario seem to know more about winter spas in Florida than they do about the breath-taking grandeur of the Canadian Rockies.

There was ample radio, TV and newspaper space given to the publicity-hunt antics of one Jack Paar but hardly a word was said about the six episode series on CBC-TV called "Big Business". By any yardstick, this series was one of the finest contributions to an understanding of what industrial Canada is and what it needs as I have ever heard. How many of you gentlemen watched the series?

I have been in Canada now for one and one-half years. I work for a company that is a wholly-owned subsidiary of a U.S. concern. I am proud of the fact that I work for The B. F. Goodrich Company. I'm proud of my own country and loyal to it, yet I would hazard the guess that in some respects I am as good a Canadian as many who claim Canada as their homeland. Most of us who come here have a deep appreciation for what you have and perhaps see it in a different light than you do.

My company has been in Canada over thirty-five years. It has invested more money here than it has paid out in dividends. It provides a good living for well over two thousand people and has brought technical progress, as have many other foreign concerns, to a country which needed such progress if it was to grow. Yet in some quarters such companies are vilified and condemned as being leeches on industrial Canada's financial blood-stream.

They tell me that one can become a Canadian only after he has been here for five years. Such being the case, may I pose a few "ifs" as though I were an outsider looking in?

If I were running the Canadian economy I would grab every dollar, peso, reichs-mark or pound that might find its way into the country I would invest every cent. I could get my hands on, that someone was willing to send my way, in sum-reducing equipment, plants and methods. I would make my factories, my farms, my mines, my industries the lowest cost, most efficient that money could buy. Other countries are following this method and it is these countries that are providing the competition in export markets—and even in our own.

If I were a Canadian I'd save and bank every dollar possible so that Canadian money could be made available through Canadian banks and other agencies for borrowing to provide for plant expansion, municipal projects, and school construction. I'd buy bonds of Canadian insurance, government and provincial. This might tend to reduce the Canadian standard of living now but it would ensure hence the possibilities that the standard would improve in the future.

If I were a Canadian labor leader I would guide my unions into "Made in Canada for Canadians" labor agreements that were designed to increase Canadian productivity and designed to make Canadian products at world-wide competitive costs. If I were a Canadian labor leader I would thus seize the opportunity to become the real life saviour of the long-range Canadian economy. Why labor leaders fail to recognize this opportunity in a country that hasn't yet put on its economic long pants is beyond my comprehension.

If I sound like Mr. James Coyne in the following it is because I mean so.

If I were a Canadian I would insist, and I mean insist, that my government spend only what it had in hand, and not waste future generations would contribute. My elected representatives would be emphatically told that government had to operate within a budget that represented frugality, not paternalism; that it was no different than a family unit as far as spending was concerned and that it, and every person the government represented, were equal partners in a single enterprise. . . . that of making Canada great. Walter Gordon, Chairman of the Royal Commission on Canada's Economic Prospects, and recently

"There can be no justification at this stage of the business cycle for substantial government deficits." I maintain that there should be none at all.

My Canada would become the greatest collective sales organization in history for the purpose of selling Canada to the world. It is well known, however, that it takes more downright "selling" within an organization that it does to sell its products externally to the consuming public. In the case of Canada, the need of this is even more apparent. Until Canadians are sold on Canada she can't and won't sell herself to outsiders.

My Canadian Chamber of Commerce and all of its affiliates from coast to coast would kick off a campaign to start this job of "selling Canada to Canadians". We have National Doughnut Week and such morose things as National Be Kind to Mothers-in-law Week. Let's have a "Be Canadian" week. With every newspaper, service club, Chamber of Commerce, and municipal government behind the project, an awareness could be created that could well be the start of a new economic era for all of Canada.

SUMMER BONS PIEL IN B.C.

Summer is the time for golfers, picnickers, boaters, pioneers, fiddlers, baseball players, etc. It is also the time for curlers, however, as the Midsummer Bonspiel is in Nelson, B.C., from July 2 to July 9 of this year, would state.

Four curlers from Drayton Valley were among the early entrants in the summer bonspiel in the B.C. city. The four are Bill Copeman, Ted Willis, Billy Rose, and John Ward.

A five-day logging show will provide a novel round of attractions for the World Championships at the week-long curling event. Also on the program will be a demonstration race by the famous "Miss Spokane" hydroplane.

Boxing organizers report a 40% increase in registration over last year and they state that entries from Alberta are outnumbering those from elsewhere, although a risk from Nova Scotia has been registered.

CLASS PROPHECIES

This is the last Prophecy given by Audrey Landers at the Graduation Banquet on May 27th. Early year is the custom for one of the graduates to predict the future of each of the graduating class. From the years I have known my fellow classmates I feel safe in forecasting the following.

Richard Schipper will soon use all evening buildings and working for hire. He'll sail across the wide blue sea and Queen of England he will be. May Thomason Cuts and snail! He'll reach a love of a ball life. And then she'll be somebody's wife.

Allen Smith from Violet Grove An engineer will be. If he makes the grade by passing French.

The U. of A. He'll see He'll have to strive for what he'll get.

But he will accomplish this we bet. Anne Renowski Young and pert She's a cute little lass Who likes to flirt Teaching kids is her ambition After the gain U. of A. recognition.

Audrey Landers Excels in sports She has worked hard in school, And has held sharp reports But this young lady has no plans, Except to visit foreign lands.

Ronald Schmidt Hails from Lodgepole school With his ambitions he should gain world rule, If he can keep away from romance. Then nothing should hamper Ronnie's chance.

Clarence Elliott Is serious and tall This is the boy

VALEDICTORY ADDRESS

This is the Valedictory Address which was given by Anne Renowski on May 27th at the Graduation Banquet.

One more school year is ending and one more class is preparing to leave and to start on their destinies, so tonight, we the graduates, are taking part in a ceremony which is a formal farewell to high school.

Often before saying good-bye to a place we review our experiences there, and since the end of our school life is rapidly approaching our thoughts wander back over the events of the twelve years which we entered grade one. We realize that we learned more than just how to read, write and add. We found that the world was infinitely more vast than we had expected. Later, with our classmates we learned that co-operation was the essential element in a successful friendship whether it be between two people or two countries. We were taught to reason, to express ourselves, and to face and solve our problems. Thus we were being prepared for a future when we could no longer rely on someone else.

We know that we were dependent upon others. We, the graduates of 1960 would like to express sin core thanks to these people. First to our parents who presented us with the opportunity of attending high school and for their patience and guidance. Next, to our teachers who encouraged us to continue at times when our studies seemed pointless, and for the time they devoted to supervising us and the extra-curricular activities which brightened up our school days so much. Last, to our church whose influence played an important part in helping us form the right decisions.

Our graduation signifies so end to the mode of living to which we have grown accustomed, but it is also a prelude to the future. There is regret in our hearts for having to leave Drayton Valley High School but never regret for having attended for with the training acquired here, we feel more capable of fulfilling the obligations of our parents, our community and our country.

With fond memories of the past and anticipation for the future we bid Drayton Valley High School "Adieu".

D.V. Highlights

BY: EDITH DEBY

Ricardo, Juinita and Leola Block are very happy to tell all their friends about their new baby brother, Norman Dewyne, who was born at Dayland on June 1.

Mrs. Frost, nee Rosie Smith, has been visiting in and around Drayton Valley for the past week. It is twenty two years since Rosie and her father had a trap line on the Half Way Flat, and needless to say there have been many changes since then. Mrs. Frost was astonished to learn that her old cabin is still standing and that it is possible to drive to it with a car.

David and Joan Glen and their family have come to live on the family ranch at Lodgepole. I know I speak for all the old friends when I say a hearty "Welcome Home".

Mrs. Walter Krause was a guest of the St. Albert W.L. last Saturday when the Countywide Conference was held in their town. Mrs. Krause was very active in the St. Albert W.L. when she lived in that town.

Mrs. William Volschlagier returned last Saturday from her holiday in the U.S. She visited relatives now living in Mexico and found the weather unbearably hot. Wouldn't mind a few days of that weather here, would you?

The W.L. wishes to thank all those who made their annual Strawberry tea the success it was. An especially big "Thank You" goes to Mrs. Clarence Franks who, though not a member, came and worked as hard as any of us. Mrs. Frank Harrison won the Pansy Genanium.

Again, thanks folks, for your generous support.

Mrs. Francis Law is well enough to be home from the University Hospital. Mrs. Law received treatment for a chronic eye condition.

Friday is Farmers' Day and farmers hereabouts are celebrating with a picnic at Dunnington School.

"May I speak with you a moment, sir?" "Certainly, young man, what is it?" said Mr. Smith. "Well, sir, I--er--that is to say--can I--would you mind--?" "Well, well," laughed Mr. Smith "so you want to marry my daughter and are shy about asking, eh? Take her, my boy, and good luck to you."

"Oh no, it wasn't that, sir, I--I wondered if you could lend me some money."

"Lend you money?" replied Mr. Smith, glaring. "Certainly not! Why, I hardly know you!"

A woman's idea of keeping a secret is refusing to tell who told it to her.

REPORT FROM PARLIAMENT HILL

By Hugh M. Hemer, M.D., M.P., Jasper-Eldon House of Commons Canada

The recent news in the House is the introduction of amendments to the anti-combines legislation. The intention of the Government in introducing these amendments is to protect the small business man and give assurance the public interest will be served by all business.

Under these amendments, combines for the purpose of price fixing or restraint of trade and combines harmful to the public interest remain illegal. The amendment is to allow small businesses to combine for the purpose of research. This will allow smaller firms to complete particularly with large international firms in this regard.

The legislation also aims at stopping low-leader selling and restricting the use of promotional allowances. These are recommendations of the Stewart Report on Price Squeeze. Misleading advertising is also attacked. It will now be illegal under the new Act for advertisers to claim falsely that an article offered at a certain price had normally been sold at a higher price.

The law on business mergers remains practically unchanged. Any found by the courts to be contrary to the public interest are illegal.

Bigness is not necessarily good and small business can be as efficient or more so than big business. These amendments will protect the small man from being crushed by the "capital resources" of the larger firms.

I would be pleased to hear from any merchants in my constituency who may have queries with regard to these amendments.

DISTRICT PERSONALITIES

Cabinet, and has also been a representative on municipal delegations on numerous occasions. Mr. Furr has been a speaker at farm organization meetings in Alberta and Saskatchewan a number of times, also.

After the famous oil discovery at Leduc, Red was appointed chairman of the Oil Committee for the Farmers Union. An intelligent speaker on the oil situation as it affects farmers Mr. Furr at one time challenged Premier Manning to a public debate. However, Mr. Manning had other pressing engagements and had to decline.

In 1954 the Furr's moved to Drayton Valley where they bought the former Getzinger Garage. Still active in community work, Mr. Furr organized and became the first president of the Board of Trade. He has served this community in a number of ways with his organizational abilities.

In sports Red has made his mark also in the years past. He played semi-pro baseball for several years. He played football with the Edmonton Eskimos, at the same time that Eric Duggan was making his mark. He has played soccer, and hockey. He boxed for four years.

Since coming to Drayton Valley he has been identified with community organizations. He is a charter member of the Rotary Club, a charter member of the Elks, and a member of the Chamber of Commerce.

No account of his many activities would be complete without making note of his political activities. He was originally a member of the Young Liberals Association. When the Liberals joined with the Conservatives to form the Coalition government in 1940 he joined the ranks of the C.C.F. Later he became an organizer for the Liberals. He is present at the first meeting. He said the first mayor the newly-formed commission dealt with was the mayor of a proposed settlement at "Speed Corner", the application was refused in the interest of orderly development of the area. Applied [illegible] Number Two was also turned down by the Commission, it involved a request to establish a port-office at Speed Corner, an area that a few evidently thought might develop into a metropolis, perhaps some day to rival Edmonton. Mr. McLeod said that the Commission has dealt with many matters since its formation and has played a large part in the orderly development of this area.

Mr. Furr states that the reason he moved to Drayton Valley was because he could see a great future for this town and has not yet seen anything to cause him to change his mind. He believes this will become a good-sized city some day.

I.D. ADVISORY COMMISSION LUNCHEON

Present for the luncheon were Mr. Hubner, Mr. Rymer, Mr. Durr, Mr. McGrew, Mr. Newham, Mr. Maddock, Mr. and Mrs. McLeod, Mrs. C. Woods, M.L.A., Mr. Goe, Mr. Wetter, Mr. Broomhall, Mr. and Mrs. Neilson, Mr. and Mrs. Leadley, Mr. and Mrs. Pickup, Mr. and Mrs. Smith, Dr. Chaffers, Mr. Chilton, Mr. Erickson, Mr. Bellows, Mr. Webber, Mr. Hebbard, Mr. McMillan, Mr. and Mrs. Larson, Mr. and Mrs. Shaver, Mr. and Mrs. Harris, Mr. Mundell, Mr. Cumming and Mr. and Mrs. Deby.

Following the meal Mr. Munro McLeod gave a brief resume of the beginnings of the Advisory Planning Commission, the first such a commission to be set up to handle developments in areas such as the Pembina field after the discovery of oil here. Mr. McLeod said that the first chairman of the Commission was Mr.

W. Hebbard and that 37 were present at the first meeting. He said the first mayor the newly-formed commission dealt with was the mayor of a proposed settlement at "Speed Corner", the application was refused in the interest of orderly development of the area. Applied [illegible] Number Two was also turned down by the Commission, it involved a request to establish a port-office at Speed Corner, an area that a few evidently thought might develop into a metropolis, perhaps some day to rival Edmonton. Mr. McLeod said that the Commission has dealt with many matters since its formation and has played a large part in the orderly development of this area.

Mrs. Woods, M.L.A. for Stony Plain Constituency, stated that when she became a member of the Alberta Legislature in 1941 this was rated as a wilderness area and through the discovery of oil in 1953-54 brought blessings to the area. It also brought problems, and the work of the Commission, to a large extent, has been in dealing with certain problems that have arisen as a result of the discovery of oil here. She commended the Commission for their work.

Mr. Hebbard said he had found the work on the I.D. Commission very informative. Past Chairman, Mr. Shaver, said that the general plan of the Commission had finally come out to be something very useful in the development of this area and would serve as a guide for future developments in other sections of the country.

Jimmie Gee, who was development officer in charge of development in Drayton Valley during the beginning of the building boom here, said that the object of the first development commissions had been to develop the area so that one major community would develop in an orderly pattern instead of a number of tiny, scattered communities. The first big problem was to decide where the major community should be. That was the object of several Cabinet and Commission meetings until it was finally decided to establish the major centre in Drayton Valley which was already established as a hamlet.

Following that decision came surveys for streets, utilities and services, and the start of construction on these things.

Mr. Durr said that the start of Drayton Valley township gave birth to a very important piece of legislation which would effect the development of many other communities. He said that the pattern of planning would be adopted by other communities outside of Alberta.

The former Pembina Gardens Restaurant will soon be re-opened under a new name, new management and a fine new arrangement.

The restaurant will be known as the Club Cafe and will be operated by Hong Mah and Dick Wong, who were formerly employees of the Drayton Valley Hotel Cafe.

The new restaurant will feature something that it badly needed in Drayton Valley, banquet room which will handle either small or large affairs. The large building has been divided down the centre and the west side will be divided into three banquet rooms, separated by folding doors. Each room will have its individual entrance, so that these banquets or parties could be in progress at the same time. If necessary, for larger affairs the folding doors can be put back and the whole rooms made into one large banquet room which would seat about 150 persons.

Many Mothers have cause to be grateful to Mobil Oil of Canada for the presentation made by the Company in June last year of this Infant Resuscitator to the Hospital. The machine is used at every birth and is invaluable when a Caesarian operation is performed, also when an infant's life is in the balance.

When the Hospital Board found it very difficult to allocate money for this purpose $1,000.00 (approx) Mobil Oil responded in a matter of hours when the need was put before them by one of the Doctors. The picture shows Nurse Marinka holding a recent arrival, Baby Manchester.

Drayton Valley Municipal Hospital for its size, holds top place for births per year and is the first small Hospital in the Province to be equipped with this ultra modern machine.

The plaque reads:

June, 1959:

This Infant Resuscitator was presented to The Drayton Valley Municipal Hospital by Mobil Oil of Canada Ltd., coincident with the sixth anniversary of the discovery of the Pembina Oil field June 1951.

W.I. Presents Wheel Chair

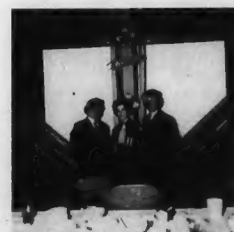

Staff Photo

Women's Institute members, left to right are Mrs. Oscar, Mrs. Chilchase, Mrs. Nordby, Mrs. Deby, Mrs. Frankie, and Mrs. Wilson. The two wheel chairs were the result of the work of the W.I. which sponsored a Magazine Sale Drive and used the proceeds to purchase two wheel chairs for use in the community. These will be made available to any person in the district who is in need of a wheel chair. The chairs are at the Hospital and anyone in need of them may contact the hospital.

The Women's Institute was first organized in Drayton Valley in November, 1954. Mrs. Roy Burrows was the first president. Present president is Mrs. Deby, vice-president is Mrs. Hittinger, treasurer is Mrs. Nordby and the secretary is Mrs. Jack Franks. The Drayton Valley branch of the W.I. is said to have a greater turnover of members than any branch in the province.

The ladies of the W.I. have undertaken many other projects for the community and the wheel chairs will be of great value to residents of this district from time to time.
